33rd Annual
UCLA Intensive Course in
Geriatric Medicine
& Board Review

September 7-10, 2016
The Beverly Hilton
Beverly Hills, California
Greetings!

It is my pleasure to invite you to attend the 33rd Annual UCLA Intensive Course in Geriatric Medicine. In this time of change in our healthcare system, the rapid aging of the patient population has become an increasingly important issue. A patient’s age frequently alter not only disease presentation, but also diagnostic and treatment choices and prognoses. Thus, every clinician who provide medical care to adults need to be aware of the latest developments in the increasingly complex care of older patients.

UCLA has a long reputation for excellence in geriatric clinical care, education and research. For over 3 decades, faculty from the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA has trained thousands of health professionals in the state-of-the-art care of older patients. The Ronald Reagan UCLA Medical Center has consistently been ranked the Best in the West hospital by the U.S. News and World Report since 1990. Among the topics for this year’s course include updates and board review in:

- Diagnosis and Management of Dementia, Delirium and Depression
- Evidence-based Health Screening of Older Patients in Primary Care
- Common Gastrointestinal Issues in Older Patients
- Falls Assessment and Prevention
- Wound Care Management and Pressure Ulcer Prevention
- Renal Diseases and Blood Pressure Control in Geriatric Patients
- Geriatric Pain Management and Palliative Care
- Pre-Operative Risk Stratification in Older Surgical Patients

This year, our Solomon awardee/speaker will be Susan Mitchell, MD, MPH, Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School and an internationally-recognized expert in the care of patients with advanced dementia. The renowned neuroscientist on cognitive and brain plasticity Arthur Kramer, PhD, the newly appointed Senior Vice Provost for Research and Graduate Education at Northeastern University, will be the Cherkin awardee/speaker. Through findings from their respective research studies, Drs. Mitchell and Kramer will present the latest on brain aging, from the merits of exercise on brain health to the evidence-based and compassionate care of patients in the late stages of Alzheimer’s and other forms of dementia.

New in 2016, we will be offering 3 Preconference Workshops. These interactive sessions will be held on Tuesday, September 6, 2016 to supplement the main course which starts the following day. The topics for the workshops include managing depression in primary care, dementia screening and management, and effective public speaking and teaching. Attendees may choose to attend one or more of these sessions, which are also available to those who are not planning on attending the main course.

On behalf of the faculty and staff of the 33rd UCLA Intensive Course in Geriatric Medicine, I am looking forward to personally welcoming you to Los Angeles in September. Thank you very much.
Course Overview

One of the longest-running courses of its kind, the UCLA Intensive Course in Geriatric Medicine is a four-day course and board review in geriatric medicine that emphasizes an evidence-based and functional approach to the comprehensive care of older adults. It is designed for health professionals who wish to enhance their ability to care for older adults, and for physicians who are preparing for the initial certification or re-certification examinations in Geriatric Medicine offered by the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM) and the American Board of Family Practice (ABFP).

- The 33rd Annual UCLA Intensive Course is presented concurrently with the 2016 Intensive Course in Geriatric Pharmacy and Board Review, and participants may attend sessions in either course.
- Speaker presentations and supplementary materials are provided in a searchable and annotatable PDF syllabus.
- Over nine hours of optional interactive board review sessions are offered.
- Three interactive preconference workshops on a variety of topics including dementia screening and management, managing depression in primary care, and effective public speaking and teaching.

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this course, participants should be able to:

- Identify the basic principles of geriatric medicine
- Apply principles of geriatric assessment, geriatric pharmacology, rehabilitation, and long-term care to the patient care setting
- Understand key aspects of neurology, cardiology, psychiatry, urology, pharmacology, and rheumatology as they apply to older patients
- Identify psychosocial problems and ethical issues in decision-making, and formulate an approach to these problems
- Comprehend the major geriatric syndromes such as incontinence, pain management, osteoporosis, and explain the appropriate geriatric medicine approaches to them

The FDA has issued a concept paper which classifies commercial support of scientific and educational programs as promotional unless it can be affirmed that the program is “truly independent” and free of commercial influence. In addition to independence, the FDA requires that nonpromotional, commercially supported education be objective, balanced, and scientifically rigorous. The policy further states that all potential conflicts of interest of the CME staff and faculty be fully disclosed to the program’s participants. In addition, Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education policy now mandates that the provider adequately manages all identified potential conflicts of interest prior to the program. We at UCLA fully endorse the letter and spirit of these concepts.

Disclosure Statement

The FDA has issued a concept paper which classifies commercial support of scientific and educational programs as promotional unless it can be affirmed that the program is “truly independent” and free of commercial influence. In addition to independence, the FDA requires that nonpromotional, commercially supported education be objective, balanced, and scientifically rigorous. The policy further states that all potential conflicts of interest of the CME staff and faculty be fully disclosed to the program’s participants. In addition, Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education policy now mandates that the provider adequately manages all identified potential conflicts of interest prior to the program. We at UCLA fully endorse the letter and spirit of these concepts.
