The Pacific Retina Club will hold its SEVENTH ANNUAL meeting on March 15, 2019, at the California NanoSystems Institute at UCLA. We would like to invite you to participate in this retinal conference and present your most interesting case of the year. Everyone has seen a great case in the last year and we are hoping that you will share yours with us. Each case will be allotted 3 minutes for presentation and 4 minutes for discussion. Discussions promise to be energetic, dynamic, and insightful.

There will be a dinner reception following Session 2 on Friday. Those wishing to enjoy West Los Angeles are encouraged to arrive on Thursday to spend time touring the city.

Pacific Retina Club attendees are also encouraged to register and attend the International Retinal Imaging Symposium (IntRIS 2019) that will take place at the same venue the next day, Saturday, March 16, 2019. IntRIS 2019 will bring together world renown experts to discuss new technologies and applications of retinal imaging.

For information on the International Retinal Imaging Symposium (IntRIS 2019), please visit the UCLA CME Live Courses listing at www.cme.ucla.edu.
